Victoria, BC: Arostegui Studio under the direction of his principal designer Cristian Arostegui G. has created a unique, modern and elegant modular concrete seat. After a year of designing, planning and prototyping, 'The Sofi' bench is now ready for residential and commercial use. Don't you want to see the 'The Sofi' bench in a museum?

Arostegui Studio carefully designed 'The Sofi' bench specifically with the intention to produce in concrete, with a local company employing UHPC (Ultra High Performance Concrete). This unique material is an innovative type of concrete, which is both lighter and stronger than typical concrete. This strength allowed Cristian Arostegui G. to design a refined profile, while still providing ample structural strength.

"The work that they are creating is something that Victoria has never seen. The products are innovative, world-class pieces, all dreamed up right here in this little Island city"

Erin Renwick for Modern Home Victoria Magazine.

"When I see 'The Sofi' bench side profile images of the Barcelona chair by Mies Van de Roeh come right the way to my mind."

Ivan Meade, principal designer of Meade Design Group.

'The Sofi' bench has a multifunctional, versatile design that is suited to a variety of environments – It can be used inside or outside. This modern and elegant design will add style and sophistication to any space, from one piece in a living room to a pairing or combination in an office lobby, museum, art gallery or park. The dimensions of the bench are based on the Fibonacci proportions (20"W. x 15"D. x 18"H).

Founded in 2014 by Chilean Designer Cristian Arostegui G., Arostegui Studio is a furniture and design business based in Victoria, BC. With a focus on quality and sustainability, Arostegui Studio is constantly experimenting with the blending of unique and local materials to create exciting residential and commercial pieces.

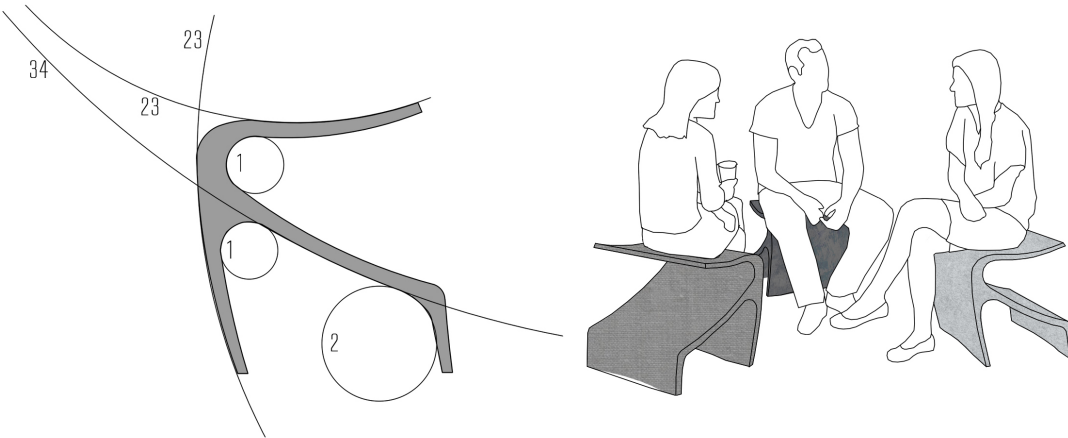

This modular concrete bench was developed in collaboration between Arostegui Studio and Szolyd Development.
